Language for Specific Purpose (LSP) is a widely applied approach to second or foreign language teaching and training that addresses immediate and very specific needs of learners who need that language as a tool in their education, training or job. In order to expose the concept of LSP to the B. Ed. students a subject lecture was facilitated by Dr.V. Anuradha, Assistant Professor, Faculty of Education organised on 27.01.2021. The guest elaborated the needs analysis which is the underlying "driver" for the development of LSP programs and detailed the two areas within applied linguistics: One focusing on the needs in education and training and the other one with a focus on research on language variation across a particular subject field. The functions of language include communication, the expression of identity, play, imaginative expression, and emotional release was explained and the importance of language was also elaborated. The students gained knowledge about the new concept of Language for Specific Purpose.
